Verizon Recognizes uReach Technologies as a Leading Network Products Supplier

uReach Receives Verizon's 2007 Supplier Excellence Award

Holmdel, NJ, (April 18, 2008) — uReach Technologies, a leading provider of communications solutions for wireless, wireline, and broadband carriers, announced today that it has been selected as the recipient of Verizon's 2007 Supplier Excellence Award in the "Network Products" category, recognizing its outstanding effort and achievement in demonstrating performance excellence. Verizon recognized just 10 companies in 11 categories.

uReach began supplying voice mail systems for Verizon in 2000. In 2001 uReach began delivering unified communications services in multiple markets. uReach has served a number of Verizon's business groups, delivering voice and unified messaging.

"Verizon is focused on delivering the best customer experience so we expect the highest quality service from our vendors, which keeps us focused on the business of serving our customers," said George Dowell, vice president of Supply Chain Services, Verizon Services Operations. "uReach Technologies is among 10 vendors that have received a 2007 Verizon Supplier Excellence Award for delivering advanced products and services and for consistently demonstrating a commitment to excellence."

"We are honored to be recognized by Verizon and to join the elite class of vendors that have received the Supplier Excellence Award," said Dave Ittner, Chief Technology Officer, uReach Technologies. "It is satisfying to work with a provider that is focused on delivering the best experience to their customers."
